Claims 6, 7 and 11-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are directed to methods of producing a pharmaceutical preparation, however, the steps of said production have not been set forth. Further, it is not clear what is encompassed by the term "forming" (claims 6 and 7).

Applicant's arguments filed July 7, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that the pharmaceutical preparation is produced by forming salts. However, it is not clear what is encompassed by the term "forming" in claims 6 and 6. Does ii involve mixing or some other steps? Further, the preamble of the claims is not limited to a method of preparing a salt but encompasses a method of preparing a pharmaceutical preparation which encompasses said salts in combination with additional excipients or solvents. The claims fail to set forth how such preparations are made.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-2 and 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Baeyens et al (J. of Controlled Release, 1998, vol. 52, pages 215-220), Renard et al (J. Fr. Ophthalmol., 1996, vol. 19, no. 11, pages 689-695) or Golub et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,459,135).

Baeyens et al disclose a soluble insert containing gentamicin sulfate and dexamethasone phosphate useful for the treatment of infections.

Renard et al disclose a composition containing indomethacin/gentamicin and a composition containing dexamethasone/neomycin.

Golub et al disclose a composition containing tetracycline and indomethacin.

The present claims read on a pharmaceutical preparation comprising at least one salt whose cationic component can be gentamicin, tetracycline or neomycin and whose anionic component can be indomethacin or dexamethasone and to methods of producing a pharmaceutical preparation comprising said salts. The pharmaceutical preparations encompassed by the present claims are not limited to said salts but encompass said salts in combination with any pharmaceutically acceptable solvent. Once dissolved in a solvent, the claimed salts are nothing more than a mixture of the two components disclosed by the cited prior art. Therefore, the claimed preparations are inherent in the compositions disclosed by the cited prior art.

Applicant's arguments filed July 7, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that if salts formed in Bayens, they would have precipitated out of the solution. This argument has not been found persuasive since the claimed preparations are not limited to solid salts, which have been precipitated but encompasses preparations comprising said salts in combination with any additional solvent in which said salts are dissolved.

Claims 3-5, 9 and 10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
